

Making solar heat an even brighter idea

Solar-heated tap water in apartment buildings is finally living up to its promises.

AquaMicro from Alfa Laval uses the heat from solar panels to turn incoming fresh water into an endless flow of instantaneous hot water – guaranteed legionella-free.

And because all tenants have their own AquaMicro unit, there's never any fuss over usage and costs.

Simply put, a bright idea just got brighter.

www.alfalaval.com